BROOKLYN FRRRY LEASES AT AUCTION.—Comptroller Haws, by direction of the Common Council, has adver-Wall street and Catharine street ferries, for the term of ten years from the first day of Msy, A. D. 1861, with all the rights, privileges and advantages thereof belonging to the Corporation of the city of New York. The advertisement, which appears in another column, gives very minute details of the conditions of sale. The setting of these ferries together will operate to prevent computition and to keep them in the hands of the present Union Ferry Company, because no capitalists will be induced to go into the matter, having to purchase the boats and other paraphernaia used in operating the ferries owned by the present company, and estimated to be worth over one million of coltars. Should the lease of each ferry be sold separately they would bring much larger prices in the aggregate than by the plan adopted. At all events, one of the conditions of the new lease should be one cent passenger fares, as with such fares the franchise would still be immensely valuable.

The lecture, if such it can be called, was nothing more nor less than the reading of a poem or rather rhyme, embodying the lecreading of a poem of rather trying, emosting the lorer's views on the Bred Scott decision, the direct and indirect actors in which were handled without gloves by the worthy divine. The "poem" commenced with an eulegy of England, for her emancipation art, progressed with a history of the circumstances attendant on the decision, and wound up with pronouncing that—

The Alleged Wife Poisoning Case. The examination in the case of Dr. John Wilson, charged with administering chloroform to his wife, was yesterday resumed before Justice Weish, at the City Hall Police Court. There was donte a large attendance present, and considerable interest was manifested. The examination was proceeded with at steven o'clock, when the testowing witness was sworn:

'U. William H. Draper, of So. 33 East Twelfth street, being sely sworn, deposed and said—On the morning of the Stir Bust. I was called about Raif past five o'clock to attend a scoman at No. 229 Ninth weane; I found her in bed and a man setting by her side trying to keep her a wate; she was swiese, but I aroused her without much difficulty; when she swoke she was swarewhat confused and wandered a little; she answered my questions, however, intelligibly when I fixed her attorison on any one point; her eyes were very much dilated and her face finshed; her pulse and breathing were natural; she complained of headache and slekuess at the stomach, and was very much disposed to drop asleep; she did on several occasions fall asleep unless her attention was aroused; I understand that she had retired at twelve o'clock in perfect health, and had eaten nothing during the course of the evening; a handkerchief was given to me upon which I discovered the odor of chloroform, or the odor that is left on a handkorchief that has been saturated with chloroform and been dried; I told the patient she could sleep, and then left, with directions to be called again if necessary, and informed her friends that she would probably be able to be moved during the course of the morning.

Cross-examination—Have been in practice since 1855 have had considerable experience in the sickness of 6 mates; do not think there were any symptoms of hysterics about her tilners.

Mr. Blankman—What is the difference between this lady's sickness and bysteria.

Witness—The previous history which I gathered lod me anout nor uners.

Mr. Blankman—What is the difference between this larg's sickress and hysteria?

Witness—The previous history which I gathered led me is the first place to refer the symptoms that she had suffered and the symptoms she was then suffering to some narcone poison; the dilation of the cyes is not like that of one laboring under hysteria; a disposition to sleep and the awakening from sleep were also to be refered to the action of narcotic poison rather than to bysteria.

Mr. Blankman—What are the symptoms of hysteria?

Witness—Hysteria presents very many different forms; cometimes we have convulsions that are hysterical; sometimes we have convulsions that are hysterical; sometimes complaints of pains in the body are called hysterical; we have hysterical symptoms in a creat variety of diseases; there are many differences about hysterical pains which can be distinguished from convulsions, and that tending against organic disease—

guished from coavulsions, and that tending against or-ganic disease—

Mr. Smith here objected to this examination, on the ground that it had no bearing on the case, claiming that they could only put such questions as had a tendency to show the nature of the disease she was suffering under. Mr. Blankman claimed that they had a right to show if there were any symptoms that poison had been adminis-tered. That was the charge made against them, and when they were at the very point when they hoped to show what was the true cause of her illness, they were stopped by an objection.

what was the true cause of her illness, they were stopped by an objection.

Judge Weish decided that the objection was proper, and that the witness was not required to answer.

Witness resumed—Hysterias the effect of a morbid excitement; the patient generally knows what is going on about her: cannot say that it is always caused by congestion of the brain or the lack of blood; where narcotic poisons are given there are two periods—one is that of excitement, and the other insensibility; ouring the period of excitement the pulse is increased, and in the period of insensibility the pulse becomes slower; her pulse was, at the time I visited her, regular.

creased, and in the period of insensibility the pulse becomes slower; her pulse was, at the time I visited her, regular.

Q. Who handed you the pocket handkerchief? A. The mother of the woman; did not take the handkerchief away for examination; when I received it it was perfectly ory, but that the odor always left from the use of chlorolorm on a handkerchief.

Q is the smell of chloric ether left like that of chloroform. A. The smell of chloric ether, or odor left, is more like that of alcohol.

Q hight this have been chloric ether left on the handkerchief? A. I am satisfied it was not.

Q. What is the effect of chloroform upon the pulse? A. During the period of exci ement it is increased, and in case of insensibility it may remain somewhat increased, or it may fall below the normal standard; I have seen it natural and below the normal standard; I have seen it natural and below the normal standard.

Mr. Smith—What did Mrs. Wilson say to you in the prisence of Mr. Wilson, when you was called in on the hight in question?

Witness—She answered my questions, and said that she had retired at twelve o'clock, and after that knownothing.

Mr. Smith—Did you ask Wilson if he had chloroform in the house? and if so, what did he say?

Witness—I asked Mr. Wilson if he had administered this chloroform, and he said he had not; I then asked lum if he had any chloroform in the house, and he told me he had, and at the same time produced a bottle about one quarter full.

Mr. Smith—What did you consider produced the condition in which you found the patient?

Witness—Chloroform.

dition in which you found the patient?
Witness—Chicoform.
Mr. Smith—Will chloroform produce death?
Witness—It will.
Mr. Blackman—What was done with the bottle of chieroform?
Witness—I gave it to a man in the room, who said he recognized it as being chloroform; this was about six o'clock; do not know what he did with the bottle.
Mr. Blankman—is chloroform ever used in cases of hysteria?

Mr. Blankman—is chlorotorm ever used in cases of hysteria?
Witness—It may be; I have never used it; Mrs. Wilson was in a different condition than one who might be affected by hysteria; the manner in which she awoke and the appearance of her eyes, and disposition to fall asleep, fully satisfied me that it was not the effect of hysteria.

The examination of the witness being concluded, the examination was adjourned to Monday morning next at ten o'clock.

Signs of Railboan Trouble.—The Cleveland Herald says there are signs of trouble again between the "Four treat lines." At the recent Convention winter rates of passenger fare between Cleveland and New York were raised to $14. These rates went into effect on Monday last. The two New York roads then "backed out," and refused to make the rates over $12. After considerable bickering, the rates have temporarily gone to that figure. Meantline, tickets from New York to Cleveland are sold at $12.50—the summer price. There is considerable classatisfaction among the Wastern connections of the "four powers."

LYNCH.—At an early hour on the morning of Tuesday, Nov. 16, MARIA LOUISE, the eldest daughter of James S.
Lynch, Esq., of Washington place, Brooklyn, E. D.
Miss Lynch hau just completed a liberal course of education, and by a well balanced mind and sweetness of discation, and by a well balanced mind and sweetness of disposition was well prepared to fill a conspicuous place in the large circle of friends who mourn her early loss. Ere summer's heat had driven the travelling portion of the cutzens shroad, she was subjected to an attack of billious lever; but parental fondness anticipated a speedy restoration to perfect health, especially as for two months the entire family enjoyed the pure and bracing air of the country. But when the cool breezes of autumn admonshed them to return to their city home, loving friends were quick to perceive that she, who departed an invaint and returned with the rose, indeed, but not the rose of beatth, upon her check. Medicat skall, suded by all the paliatives which fond hearts and kind friends could suggest, proved unavailing; and the leaves whose vernal budpalitatives which foud hearts and kind friends could suggest, proved unavailing; and the leaves whose vernal budding beheld this cherished individual blooming in youth and beauty had scarcely failen, when, with the flowers, she drooped and passed away from earth. We mourn, yet with joy amis our sorrow—for our departed friend as left with us the evidence that she had sought and found an interest in a saviour's love. We sympathize with those stricken parents in their foud hopes blighten-with that family circle so sadly broken; but we point them to the blest manistons in the skies, where, we trust, the object of our love will bloom in undping youth. M.
